Announcing One City One Book 2019: There There

San Francisco Public Library is honored to announce its 15th Annual One City One Book selection, There There <<https://4la.co/1W7TSZ?SID=23e25038-ff6d-4fb4-a10c-bd21e89375cb>> by Tommy Orange. One City One Book aims to bring the San Francisco community together by participating in the act of reading the same book at the same time. Join us in this important citywide literary event!

There There <<https://4la.co/1W7TT0?SID=23e25038-ff6d-4fb4-a10c-bd21e89375cb>> tells the story of urban Native Americans living in Oakland and depicts a compelling, heartbreaking and urgently real landscape of the Native experience in the Bay Area, from the past to present day. This engaging read grapples with complex and painful histories through a constellation of 12 characters from Native communities. As the characters each make their individual journeys to the Big Oakland Powwow, they discover truths about themselves—and eventually each other—long buried but ready to be brought into the light.

Throughout October and November, we are pleased to offer many events and programs related to One City One Book <<https://4la.co/1W7TSZ?SID=23e25038-ff6d-4fb4-a10c-bd21e89375cb>>, including Tommy Orange in conversation, book talks, themed exhibits and a city-wide celebration of First Person heritage and the 50th anniversary of the Alcatraz Uprising. Visit sfpl.org/onecityonebook <<https://4la.co/1W7TSZ?SID=23e25038-ff6d-4fb4-a10c-bd21e89375cb>> for regular updates.

Tommy Orange in Conversation <<https://4la.co/1W7TSZ?SID=23e25038-ff6d-4fb4-a10c-bd21e89375cb>> – October 16, 6:00 p.m., Main Library, Koret Auditorium

Teens Take Charge with Designing Library Events

All summer, teams of teens active in the Library's volunteer program, Youth Engaged in Library Leadership (YELL), have been helping librarians run school-age STEM programs and attending college and workforce development workshops. Each team has also been challenged to create and host an event for their community as part of a series called YELL Presents.

Each YELL Presents event is driven by three core questions: What is an issue your community is facing? What do school-age youth and their families like to do? What do the teens like to do? Teens learn what library resources are available to them and how to plan an event, from brainstorming and budgeting, to hosting and evaluating. Come to your local YELL Presents event and participate in the creativity, community and fun with high school teens!

Summer Stride This Month

Summer Stride <<https://4la.co/1W7TTA?SID=23e25038-ff6d-4fb4-a10c-bd21e89375cb>> , the Library's summer learning program for all ages, continues through the first half of August. Learn how to pair wine and cheese with Rainbow Grocery—with samples, of course. Attend artist talks and try your hand at Native American beading.

Attending any library program counts towards your Summer Stride <<https://4la.co/1W7TTA?SID=23e25038-ff6d-4fb4-a10c-bd21e89375cb>> participation. All ages and abilities are eligible to receive this year's tote bag after completing 20 hours of reading or library time. Reached the goal? Stop by any library branch to pick up your prize tote bag. Summer Stride wraps up on August 18!

Thank you to Mayor London Breed and the City of San Francisco, Friends of the San Francisco Public Library, National Park Service, Golden Gate Parks Conservancy, Presidio Trust, Chronicle Books and San Francisco Unified School District for invaluable support of Summer Stride!

Bookflix: Building Skills for Early Readers

Looking for ways to get children back into reading during back-to-school season? Try Bookflix <<https://4la.co/1W7TTE?SID=23e25038-ff6d-4fb4-a10c-bd21e89375cb>> , an online literacy resource that pairs beloved storybooks in video format with related nonfiction topics.

An invaluable site for children grades pre-K through 3, Bookflix helps early readers develop and practice essential reading skills on a variety of fun topics. For example, a video of the popular children's book Click, Clack, Moo: Cows that Type is offered with a Read Along option where the text is read aloud with word-by-word highlighting. For those who want to learn more, follow up with the paired nonfiction text, Let's Visit a Dairy Farm. Fun interactive games accompany each pair of texts.

Additionally, a number of books are available in Spanish. These versions have the same Read Along option, with word-by-word highlighting, as the English versions.

Big Book Sale Coming September 18-22

The biggest book party in the city every year is the Big Book Sale Member Preview, with cocktails and the West Coast's largest selection of used books! This year, the Member Preview will be on Tuesday, Sept. 17, the day before the Big Book Sale <<https://4la.co/1W7TTX?SID=23e25038-ff6d-4fb4-a10c-bd21e89375cb>> opens to the general public. New pallets of books are unloaded every day, but nothing beats that first heady rush of books before everything has been picked over.

An added bonus: Friends are invited to an exclusive members-only party from 4-8 p.m. at the Fort Mason Festival Pavilion with food, beer and wine at the party if you want to take a break from looking through the books and vinyl.

The benefits of Friends membership gives you access to a vibrant community of fellow Library lovers. Join now to support the number one library system in the country. Visit friendssfpl.org/member <<https://4la.co/1W7TTY?SID=23e25038-ff6d-4fb4-a10c-bd21e89375cb>> to get started, or you can join by texting FRIENDS to 41444.

Subject: Call for Session Speaker at the GCKE-2019, Qingdao, China

This message is from outside the City email system. Do not open links or attachments from untrusted sources.

Dear Edwin M. Lee,

Hope you everything goes well.

I apologize for the inconvenience if the letter disturbed you more than once. I have sent you an invitation letter concerning the oral presentation at this congress but unfortunately without hearing from you.

On behalf of the organizing committee, we are proud to present the 6th Annual Global Congress of Knowledge Economy-2019 (GCKE-2019), which will be held during September 20-22, 2019 at Qingdao International Conference Center, Qingdao, China. It's an honor to welcome you to join this conference and give a speech. Your prompt reply with a speech proposal will be highly appreciated.

GCKE 2019 is hosted by China Council for the Promotion of International Trade, Qingdao Sub-Council, the event will host leading scientists and economists from the academia and industry worldwide, to discuss the latest developments in economy and technology of emerging industries. There will be 300 participants from 40 countries gather in beautiful Qingdao for the event. The venue of the congress is Qingdao International Conference Center, which is the main venue of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO) Qingdao Summit.

Qingdao (Tsingtao), is a beautiful seaside city with clear air and enchanting sea view. Autumn is the most pleasant season for a visit. Just walking on the sand and listening to the surf breaking on the beach becomes enjoyable. Qingdao is well known for its own brand of delicious beer, as one of three brands recognized by beer lovers over the world, Tsingtao beer win plaudits at home and abroad because of the pleasant aroma and well-balanced taste.

For more information of GCKE 2019, please check the conference homepage at: <http://www.bitcongress.com/gcke2019/>

Looking forward to seeing you in Qingdao!

Sincerely Yours,

Dr. Xiaodan Mei

Subject: I have served in the Air Force and in Congress. People still tell me to 'go back' to China.

This message is from outside the City email system. Do not open links or attachments from untrusted sources.

Edwin,

I wanted to make sure you saw this Op-Ed I wrote for The Washington Post. Please read it and consider sharing it.

Best,
Ted

The Washington Post

"I have served in the Air Force and in Congress.
People still tell me to 'go back' to China."

I served on active duty in the U.S. Air Force and currently serve in the U.S. House of Representatives. Yet I still experience people telling me to "go back" to China or North Korea or Japan. Like many immigrants, I have learned to brush off this racist insult. I never thought the president of the United States would tell members of Congress to "go back" to another country.

President Trump has often crossed the line of what constitutes decent behavior. But this time feels different, because he is now attacking legal immigration and U.S. citizenship. His statements on Sunday and since then imply that immigrants are somehow less loyal to our country, less American, and that we should "go back" or "leave" if we disagree with him.

Twenty years ago, I wrote an op-ed in The Post about what it was like to wear my Air Force uniform while people questioned my loyalty to the United States, all because of the color of my skin. I was in my Air Force blues when a woman asked if I was in the Chinese air force.

The suspicion that immigrants are not to be trusted or are unpatriotic is not just wrong; it is un-American. And dangerous. Yet it has marred America's past, including with the 19th-century "Yellow Peril" hysteria, the internment during World War II of more than 110,000 people who happened to be of Japanese descent and accusations against Jewish Americans of harboring dual loyalties.

That brand of bigotry was at the core of Trump's online comments attacking the patriotism of Democratic Reps. Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez (N.Y.), Ilhan Omar (Minn.), Ayanna Pressley (Mass.) and Rashida Tlaib (Mich.) — insults he continued to defend on Tuesday.

To say I was furious when I read Trump's tweets would be an understatement. It brought me back to the feelings I had when writing in 1999: about belonging, sacrifice and what it means to be an American. Just as my Air Force uniform didn't protect me from racism then, the lapel pins worn by members of Congress didn't shield those four representatives from Trump's hateful venom. It didn't matter that three of the women were actually born in the United States or that Omar immigrated from Somalia as a child.

The problem for the president is that many Americans are immigrants or have friends or family members who are immigrants. The American people continue to support newcomers. A Gallup poll last year found that 75 percent of Americans believe immigration is good for the country. The American people understand that what makes the nation great is not people's bloodlines or how long ago their ancestors arrived here, but their character and belief in the Constitution.

A lot has changed in 20 years since I wrote that Post op-ed. Americans elected the nation's first black president; there is a Hispanic American on the Supreme Court; a woman is House speaker; a record number of Asian Americans are in Congress; and for the first time, Native American women and Muslim American women are serving in Congress.

"The United States has more immigrants than any other country in the world," according to the Pew Research Center, and "the U.S. foreign-born population reached a record 44.4 million in 2017." The same report found that immigrants and their descendants will drive 88 percent of the United States' population growth through 2065. The president cannot stop most of this demographic change, especially without the consent of Congress.

The United States represents hope, freedom and opportunities to those who are born here and to those who are not. Those values are part of the United States' fabric. Diversity — both in ideas and people — has always been one of the country's greatest assets.

Americans — white, black, Hispanic, Asian and Native American — understand that we are better than the president's xenophobic message. Americans understand that rising drug prices, wage stagnation and inadequate infrastructure affect everyone, regardless of race. It is heartening to see the reaction to Trump's remarks from countless Americans who recognized that his words were repulsive. Notwithstanding the current occupant of the Oval Office, the United States is, and will remain, an exceptional nation.

LGBTQIA Database: Archives of Sexuality & Gender

Not only does SFPL have a rich assortment of LGBTQIA materials throughout the branches and the Main Library's James C. Hormel LGBTQIA Center available to borrow, but also you can find valuable digital materials right from home, for free.

One essential resource is the Archives of Sexuality & Gender database, available via SFPL's website on the Articles and Databases webpage. The numerous historical documents in this database are drawn from hundreds of institutions and organizations, including major international activist organizations, as well as local, grassroots groups, such as San Francisco's own GLBT Historical Society and the New York City-based Lesbian Herstory Archives. You can find letters, photographs, transcripts of oral histories, newsletters, magazines and much more.

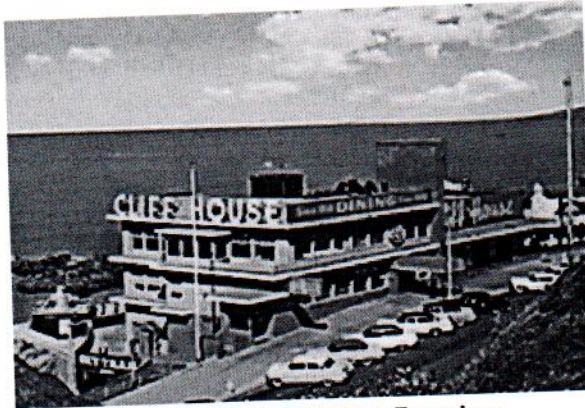

To access the Archives of Sexuality and Gender database with your library card, visit sfpl.org/databases, then click the Topics tab and select LGBTQIA in the menu.

Bone

by Fae Myenne Ng

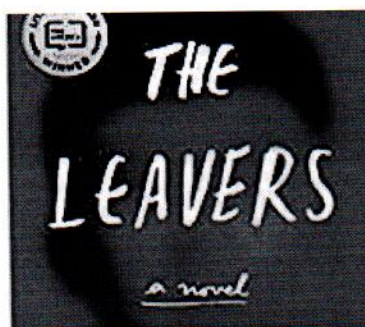

Ng takes readers into the hidden heart of San Francisco's Chinatown, to the world of one family's honor, their secrets, and the lost bones of a "paper father." Two generations of the Leong family live in an uneasy tension as they try to fathom the source of a brave young girl's sorrow.

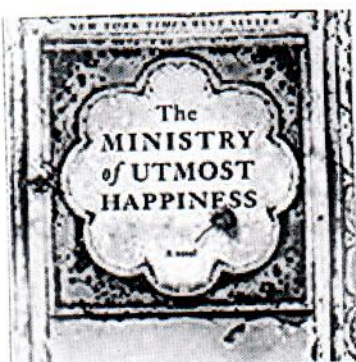

The Leavers

by Lisa Ko

Set in New York and China, The Leavers is a vivid examination of borders and belonging; a moving story of how a boy comes into his own when everything he loves is taken away, and how a mother learns to live with the mistakes of the past.

A National Book Award Finalist

The Ministry of Utmost Happiness

by Arundhati Roy

At once a love story and a provocation, this novel is as inventive as it is emotionally engaging. It is told with a whisper, in a shout, through joyous tears and sometimes with a bitter laugh. Its heroes, both present and departed, have been broken by the world we live in, and then mended by love. For this reason, they will never surrender.

Friends of the San Francisco Public Library

Why Do You Care About Our Library?

Friends' volunteers are back, and they want to hear from you. At the branches, on the streets and in our bookstores they'll be asking you to answer the essential question: "Why do you care about our Library?" This question intends to inspire community conversations about how important the Library is in our lives and to raise awareness about how our Library is funded. This is part of Friends' annual membership drive and kicks off their citywide educational campaign about the Library Preservation Fund.

What do you care about most that the Library provides free to you, your family and the community? Literacy, democracy, free and equitable access, computers, story time, quiet space—what do you love about your Library?

Pachinko

by Min Jin Lee

A saga about four generations of a Korean immigrant family. Sunja, born in a small fishing village, falls in love with an organized crime boss and becomes pregnant. A local pastor offers an escape to Japan, and so she begins a new life in a new country.

This engrossing book chronicles one family's place in history and captures a multi-generational struggle to survive, to belong and to thrive. The characters deal with poverty, immigration, a hostile nation, and confront these issues in various ways. Will they fulfill the worst stereotypes about them? Will they work hard to be perfect immigrants? The various twists, turns, and jumps-in-time keep Pachinko humming at a quick pace.

"Beautiful...Lee's sweeping four-generation saga of a Korean family is an extraordinary epic." – San Francisco Chronicle

Mayor London N. Breed

April 2019

Dear Friend,

Every day, we are working to tackle the issues that we know matter most to our residents and to make San Francisco a more equitable and just city. We are continuing our work to open more shelter beds to help those on our streets, break down the barriers to building more housing, make our streets cleaner and safer for all, and more.

Throughout the City, we are holding Town Halls and Neighborhood Office Hours so we can hear from you. Please join us to find out about the work we are doing and how we can help you address issues in your neighborhood.

It is an honor to serve as your Mayor, and I look forward to continuing to work on behalf of all San Franciscans.

Latest News and Updates

Affordable Housing Bond

To invest in badly needed affordable housing, we are moving forward an affordable housing bond for the November election, which we recently announced would increase by an additional $200 million. This bond, combined with our proposals to streamline the production of new housing, will help us build more homes more quickly for people in our communities.

Adding More Shelter Beds

In October, we announced a plan to open 1,000 new shelter beds by the end of 2020 to help those living unsheltered on our streets. We have opened 212 beds since then, and we have announced plans for another 280 by expanding our existing Navigation Centers and adding a new site on the Embarcadero.

Appointing New City Leaders

In March, following the passing of Public Defender Jeff Adachi and the retirement of Chief Joanne Hayes-White, I announced the appointments of Manohar Raju to Public Defender, and Deputy Chief Jeanine Nicholson to fill the role of Fire Chief. I am confident these two will continue their work as dedicated public servants for the residents of San Francisco.

I also appointed Dr. Anton Nigussie Bland to serve as Director of Mental Health Reform. Dr. Nigussie Bland will focus on how we can improve San Francisco's approach to mental health and substance use treatment for homeless individuals and those suffering in our City. We need to utilize our resources effectively and not let people fall through the cracks.

From City Librarian Michael Lambert:

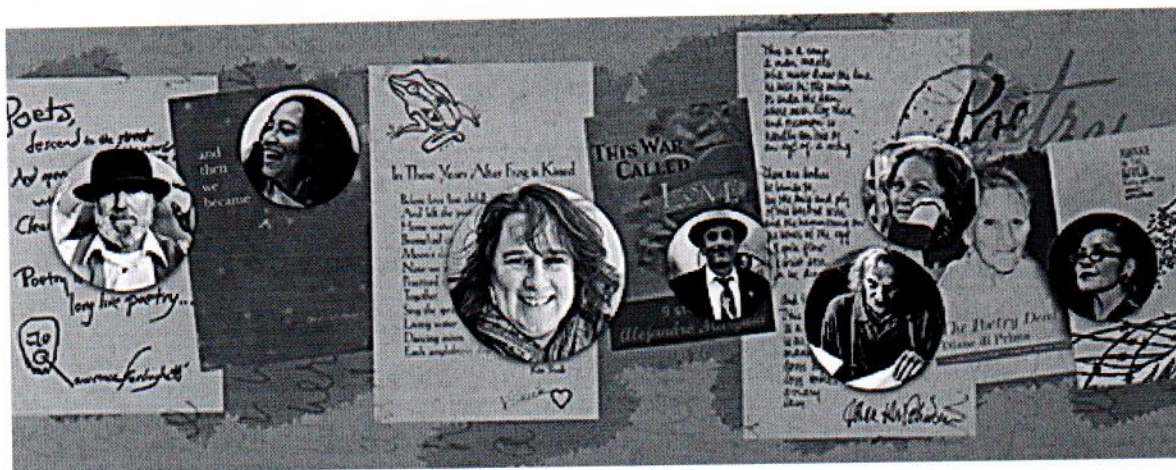

I am deeply honored to be appointed by Mayor London Breed as your next City Librarian. San Francisco has the premier urban library in the country and I am humbled to be standing on the shoulders of giants as the next City Librarian.

I am extremely proud of what we've accomplished this past year, from expanded and improved hours, to national honors, to initiating the effort to make the library system fine free. I look forward to working alongside the dedicated and passionate staff here at the Library to continue welcoming all through our doors and enhancing the quality of life for all San Francisco residents. As your City Librarian, my mission is to increase our innovative services and resources to ensure equity and excellent service.

I hope to see you soon, here, at the San Francisco Public Library.

Talking with Kids About Race Workshop

Stories allow us to see through other people's eyes, hear other people's experiences and share our own lives. "Talking with Kids About Race: Reading Between the Lines" is a workshop for parents, children, educators and caregivers to come together for an afternoon of storytelling, story learning and story creating. Join us on April 6, 2 p.m. in the Main Library's Koret Auditorium for this important program.

Topics for discussion and exploration will include:

- How to evaluate and deconstruct stories, including when they don't align with our values
- How stories can lead us into critical conversations about race and justice
- Share practices for being more concrete about what racism is and how we can stop it

Special appearance by Christian Robinson, Coretta Scott King Illustration Award winner and 2016 Caldecott Honoree.

National Healthcare Decisions Day

Whether you're 18 or 88, discussing end of life wishes with loved ones can be difficult. On April 15-16, eight branches will offer workshops to help you open this dialog and to prepare an Advance Health Care Directive, written instructions to communicate your wishes for care. The Main Library will offer planning workshops as well as a resource fair and a panel discussion covering health care decisions.

The workshop provides tools to identify future hopes and wishes for medical care; select a person to advocate for your choices; and to learn to talk with doctors, family and friends about these important decisions.

Branches will offer workshops in Spanish and Chinese as well as English. The Chinatown Branch hosts Heart to Heart® Café, an activity for participants to identify their own wishes, or for a family member, caregiver, or health provider to understand what a loved one wants when life is ending.

Friends' Award-Winning Impact

Friends of the San Francisco Public Library provides over $1 million in direct support to the Library. While the city covers the Library's staffing and operational costs, private donations allow Friends to fund expenses that fall outside of the city's capacity and to quickly respond to needs. Support includes fees for subcontracted service providers; honorariums for authors, artists and curators; collections acquisition; equipment; program supplies; food; multilingual materials production; and professional training to keep librarians on the leading edge of innovation.

Additionally, Friends work in tandem with SFPL on key signature community partnerships, including Summer Stride, One City One Book, the Effie Lee Morris Children's Literature Lecture Series, Connect with Tech Week, the James Hormel LGBTQIA Endowment, the Wiley Innovation Fund and the Lisa Brown and Daniel Handler Writer's Residency.

Together, our partnership makes the award-winning difference: Friends, the Library and YOU.

U.S. EPA and Customs continue joint operations at Southern California ports

More than ten thousand illegal items discovered

LOS ANGELES — Today, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) announced enforcement actions involving $530,199 in fines and over 10,000 engines and vehicles imported into the United States. These actions are the result of on-going joint operations between EPA and the U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) at the ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach to identify foreign-made engines and vehicles that lack proper emission controls, including ATVs, motorcycles, and construction equipment.

"Oversight of foreign-made engines imported through southern California ports is a priority," said EPA Pacific Southwest Regional Administrator Mike Stoker. "The enforcement cases announced today prevented hundreds of thousands of pounds of harmful air pollutants from being emitted into our air. We will continue to look work with CBP to ensure that items coming into the U.S. meet federal emissions requirements."

Under the joint initiative, EPA found companies imported engines and vehicles without certification or proper emissions controls. Engines operating without adequate controls emit excess carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons, and nitrogen oxides, which can cause respiratory illnesses, aggravate asthma, and lead to the formation of ground level ozone. Particular cases involved the following companies:

Piaggio, located in New York, New York, imported 5,009 motorcycles, including from Vietnam and China, that contained catalysts that did not conform to the description as certified by EPA. The company was required to pay a $240,000 penalty.

Value Group, located in Norwalk, California, imported 108 motorcycles from China that contained catalysts not matching their description as certified by EPA. The company shipped the motorcycles out of the U.S. and was required to pay a $50,000 penalty.

Yamazuki, located in Ontario, California, imported 213 highway motorcycles, off-highway motorcycles and ATVs from China into the ports. The vehicles contained catalysts not matching their description as certified by EPA. The company shipped the vehicles out of the U.S. and was required to pay a $50,000 penalty.

BV Powersports, located in Carrollton, Texas, imported 171 motorcycles from China that contained catalysts not matching their description as certified by EPA. The company shipped the motorcycles out of the U.S. and was required to pay a $13,000 penalty.

BMS Motorsports, located in Riverside, California, imported 13 ATVs from China that contained catalysts not matching their description as certified by EPA. The company shipped the ATVs out of the U.S. and was required to pay a $10,000 penalty.

In addition to the five companies above, EPA found another 19 companies imported 4,882 illegal products from China, including motorcycles, scooters, marine engines, ATVs, generators, engines and jackhammers. The companies paid fines totaling $167,199 and were required to ship the items out of the United States. The companies include:

EPA has been conducting regular inspections with CBP at California ports of entry since 2014, where more than 40 percent of containerized goods come into the U.S. EPA and CBP's focus has been on engines, vehicles, and pesticides. Mobile sources, such as on-road and off-road vehicles, are one the largest sources of air pollution in California and account for approximately 20% of PM2.5 (fine particulate matter up to 2.5 microns in diameter) and 83% of nitrogen oxide emissions.

The Clean Air Act prohibits the importation or sale of any new engines or vehicles unless they are certified by EPA to meet federal emission standards. An EPA-issued certificate of conformity must cover every vehicle and engine sold in the U.S. To obtain a certificate of conformity, manufacturers or importers must submit an application to EPA that describes the engine or vehicle, including its emission control system. The application must also provide emissions data demonstrating that the engines and vehicles will meet applicable federal emission standards.

For more information about importing vehicles and engines into the United States, please visit:

Happy Birthday Lawrence Ferlinghetti

In honor of Lawrence Ferlinghetti's 100th birthday we will host a party of the century with a poetry extravaganza on March 17, 1 p.m. in the Main Library's Koret Auditorium.

Poets Jack Hirschman, Aggie Falk-Hirschman, Janice Mirikatani, devorah major, Ginny Lim, Kim Shuck, Alejandro Murgia, Linda Noel, Dean Rader, Gerry Nicosia and Tongo Eisen-Martin will read their favorite Lawrence Ferlinghetti poems – and some of their own. Hosted by Neeli Cherkovski and City Lights Bookseller & Publisher.

Pondering Death and Dying

Until recently, talking about death was taboo. Now there are more open discussion about the subject. What happens when we die? Are there environmentally-friendly ways to deal with one's deceased body? How do different faith traditions view death? How do we ensure that our wishes are followed if we are unable to make medical decisions on our own? The Library is hosting a series of programs to explore these topics on the first Tuesday or Thursday of each month. Join us April 4 when we discuss: How different faith traditions view death

Library Services

Talking Books and Braille Center

We have changed the name of the Library for the Blind, located inside the Main Library, to reflect the collections we offer rather than describing the people we serve. The Center will continue to welcome people to programs such as book clubs, karaoke, music jams and tactile exhibitions. We also offer technology to magnify or read text aloud, and write and display braille. If you can't read regular print, even with glasses; if you have a reading disability; or you cannot hold a book and/or turn the pages; you are probably one of the approximately 80,000 San Franciscans eligible for Talking Books.

The Wanderers

by Meg Howrey

Training for the first-ever mission to Mars, three astronauts share experiences that push the boundary between the real and surreal while irrevocably changing their relationships and familial bonds. The Wanderers explores the differences between those who go and those who stay, telling a story about the desire behind all exploration: the longing for discovery and the great search to understand the human heart.

About the Author

Meg Howrey is a former dancer who performed with the Joffrey, Eglegvsky Ballet, and City Ballet of Los Angeles. She is the author of two previous novels, Blind Sight and The Cranes Dance, and the co-author of the bestselling novels City of Dark Magic, and City of Lost Dreams, published under the pen name Magnus Flyte. Her non-fiction has appeared in Vogue and The Los Angeles Review of Books.

Friends of the San Francisco Public Library

Get to know your Library Preservation Fund

The Library Preservation Fund is a key reason the SFPL system has been nationally recognized as the Gale/Library Journal's 2018 National Library of the Year. Thanks to the efforts of Friends of the San Francisco Public Library, San Franciscans wisely invested in the library system through the creation of the Library Preservation Fund 25 years ago. Since then, San Francisco residents have been able to enjoy a consistent and stable budget which provides a dedicated funding stream. The property tax allocation in the Library Preservation Fund alone makes up 42% of San Francisco Public Library's annual budget, a critical foundation that allows for increased programs, events, book collections, the latest technology, free Wi-Fi and dedicated space for communities.

The Library Preservation Fund also provides dedicated public reviews every five years for the continued determination of community needs and interests and oversight of the budget. San Franciscans have much to celebrate in the increased open hours available to all residents and visitors through the forward-thinking establishment and continued success of the Library Preservation Fund.

2019 is the Year of the Earth Boar as the dominant element is earth. While every year has good and bad moments, some believe it's a good year for businesses related to the ground in general -- soil, clay, agriculture, for example. Earthy colors such as light yellow, sandy light brown may also bring good luck.

May the Year of the Boar bring you lots of good luck, good health, and good business.

Sincerely,

Regina Dick-Endrizzi,
Director, Office of Small Business

Please join us in welcoming Walter A. Monge as the new Public Service Assistant to the Office of Small Business. Walter has been living and working in the Bay Area since 2003. He was a business coach, helping business owners to analyze, strategize and grow their business. In addition, he has many years of experience in the banking industry. Walter speaks fluent Spanish and his extensive customer service work history will be excellent for serving our diverse small business clientele.

- Accessible Business Entrance (ABE) Program Updates

Deadline for Category 1 & 2 buildings has passed!

Are you a small business owner impacted by the Accessible Business Entrance Program (ABE)?

The Office of Small Business is here to help. The ABE requires property owners of buildings that have businesses that serve the public to make primary entrances accessible for people with disabilities.

For buildings that have fully accessible entryways (Category 1) or minor barriers (Category 2), the compliance deadline to submit forms was January 1st, 2019. If you are a business that owns your building or your landlord requires you to comply, review DBI's for compliance details. If you missed the deadline, the ordinance allows for a request for 6 month extension for reasonable delay; complete and submit the form to DBI as soon as possible.

OSB offers support services for small businesses and property owners. We provide one-on-one case management support to explain compliance steps, identify landlord vs. tenant responsibilities and resources for finding a Certified Access Specialist (CASp). Visit OSB's ABE webpage for resources. Contact Rhea Aguinaldo at 554-6408 or rhea.aguinaldo@sfgov.org for questions.

- IRS Announcements

The IRS employees are working hard to resume operation after the government shutdown. Announced in January, the Treasury Department and the IRS issued regulations and guidance on new qualified business income (QBI) deduction. To learn more, click here. Also, the IRS is waiving the penalty for taxpayers whose short in tax withholding and estimated tax payments. For more information, click here. Business Spotlight

Every newsletter, we will feature a small business in San Francisco. In the spotlight for this issue is MAC'D.

Featured in our Business Spotlight previously in 2017, Office of Small Business client MAC'D opened its first restaurant in the summer of that year at 3347 Fillmore. OSB and Open in SF staff had been assisting the business owners in launching their business from pop-ups, festivals, establishing a restaurant to hiring employees. From building a solid foundation from their first location, MAC'D opened their second location at 2127 Polk Street in June 2018. Most recently, they expanded to Portland, OR in the beginning of 2019.

MAC'D is a fast-casual restaurant that allows customers to build their own macaroni and cheese bowls and get creative with toppings. Customers first choose a pasta and a sauce for their mac and cheese bowl, and then choose from a number of different topping options. Stop by one of their locations to experiment these creative combinations. (Photo by Irene

Third Street Bridge Rehabilitation Project

Third Street Bridge ("Lefty O'Doul Bridge")

The Third Street Bridge, also known as the "Lefty O'Doul Bridge", is scheduled for rehabilitation work to sustain the integrity of the bridge and to address corrosion issues. The project will involve; repairs or replacement of damaged steel members, welds, concrete counterweights, support piles, bridge fenders, spot removal of rust and associated priming and recoating, removal and replacement of the steel bridge deck and other associated work. This is a unique project that will involve the use of underwater divers, barges, rafts, temporary installation of protective barriers and containment curtains. Construction activity on the main rehabilitation phase is anticipated to begin in early 2018 and is anticipated to last for approximately 18 months. At some points during the rehabilitation and construction phase, access to the bridge may be limited or closed to pedestrian, bicycle and vehicle traffic. We will be working closely with surrounding residents and businesses in the area to coordinate and minimize impacts during these anticipated closures. The bridge will remain open to pedestrians during San Francisco Giants home games. Nighttime and weekend construction activity may be required. Full traffic plan with detours and alternative routes will be made available as the project nears. *Please note that the construction schedule is subject to change due to rain, equipment breakdown, and/or unforeseen field conditions. Please see posted "No Parking" barricade signs for exact parking restrictions during construction.

For updates, alternative routes and more information, please visit: <http://www.sfpublishworks.org/thirdstreetbridge>

Subject: Apply for Presentation Slot at InfoTech-2019 Nanjing, China Now!

This message is from outside the City email system. Do not open links or attachments from untrusted sources.

Dear Edwin M. Lee,

Greetings to you!

I apologize for the inconvenience if the letter disturbed you more than once due to the non-feedback of last one.

We cordially invite you to the 6th Annual World Congress of InfoTech-2019, with the theme of "Gathering Global Talents for a Better Future", that will be hold during May 10-12, 2019 at Nanjing, China. Based on your expertise, we are expecting your speech as speaker in this conference. Your prompt reply with a speech proposal will be highly appreciated! With your support, we hope to make this year event different from any others.

InfoTech-2019 focuses on the latest trends and hottest issues on the Information Technology. It will include, but not limited to: Network revolution, smart cities and towns, smart home, future of IoT networks and cloud computing, SDN vs. NFV, wireless and mobile network, and medical and health future network. It will be an international platform to include 100+ top speeches and 1000+ attendees from 50 destinations in China and over 20 countries to share the critical information on technologies, products, solutions, talents, and market trends.

Eastern city of China, Nanjing, boasts many high-quality universities and research institutes, with the number of universities listed in 100 National Key Universities ranking third, including Nanjing University which has a long history and is among the world top 10 universities ranked by Nature Index. Nanjing is one of the top three Chinese scientific research centers, according to the Nature Index, especially strong in the computer science; it hosts the nation's best computer software laboratory and wireless communication laboratory in the IT field.

For more information about the event, please visit: <http://www.bitcongress.com/infotech2019/default.asp>

Looking forward to hearing from you!

Sincerely yours,

Ms. Emma Wang
